Technologent Achieves VMWare Infrastructure Virtualization Competency

LAKE FOREST, CA, May 3, 2010 – Technologent, a nationwide Solutions Integrator, announced today that it has achieved the Infrastructure Virtualization Competency certification in the VMware partner program. The Infrastructure Virtualization Competency recognizes partners for their demonstrated ability to virtualize and consolidate server environments using a VMware virtualization solution.

"This certification demonstrates our focus on this critical aspect of IT." commented Marco Mohajer, Technologent Sr. Vice President Sales and Marketing. "Virtualization creates significant efficiency gains in mid-sized organizations and IT departments can realize cost reductions and productivity improvements through the simplification that virtualization brings to their infrastructure. This competency designates Technologent's real-world expertise in the functional areas of virtualization."

To meet the VMware Infrastructure Virtualization Competency requirements, Technologent had to demonstrate high levels of customer satisfaction resulting from the execution of successful virtualization projects and provide customer references to show that the company has real-world experience in the field for providing VMware solutions. In addition, Technologent employees have earned numerous VMware Certified Professional (VCP), VMware Sales Professional (VSP) and VMware Technical Sales Professional (VTSP) certifications.
