Technologent Joins EMC Velocity² Partner Program

LAKE FOREST, CA, February 25, 2010 – Technologent, a nationwide Solutions Integrator, today announced that it has joined EMC's Velocity² Partner Program. In joining EMC's program, Technologent has gained access to the market's broadest portfolio of industry-leading storage hardware, software, and services for building and managing intelligent, flexible, and secure information infrastructures. Through the EMC Velocity² Partner Program, Technologent will extend its market reach with EMC's market leadership in the enterprise and commercial market segments.

Information technology architecture and infrastructure is key to the success of virtually any major business initiative, from quickly integrating a strategic acquisition to bringing products to market cost-effectively. The EMC Velocity² Partner program enables partners to extend the advantage of the Information Lifecycle (ILM) solutions through their customers' organizations through the sale of EMC's best-of-breed products, solutions, and services. It also grows the addressable market opportunity for EMC Partners through new solutions, integrated planning, and go-to-market programs to optimize business value.

"Our customers value our commitment to providing best-of-breed solutions, and we view the addition of the EMC product line as a wise investment of our time and resources. EMC's Velocity² Partner Program provides us with the information, tools, training, and resources we need to successfully recommend and implement EMC solutions," said Marco Mohajer, Sr. Vice President Sales and Marketing. "Adding EMC to the Technologent portfolio of products will further expand our competency with VMWare® and compliment our virtualization practice."

The announcement marks the latest initiative from Technologent to further expand their business. The company has hired a team of seasoned EMC professionals to drive the EMC practice. The Technologent EMC team comes on-board fully certified and accredited in all EMC products and has extensive experience with all products in the EMC portfolio. In total, the Technologent EMC team has over 60 years of experience either working for an EMC integrator, or as a customer consumer of EMC.
